Science (Computing/IT)

This program introduces you to computer science, software engineering, internet working technology, computer security, information technology (IT) and other emerging fields.

All computing programs at ECU are developed in consultation with the IT industry and have received the Australian Computer Society's highest level of accreditation (Level 1). ECU's computing and cyber security graduates are actively sought by national and international employers, working in some of the world's leading technology companies including Google, Facebook and Microsoft.

ECU's strong industry relationships ensure that its computing and IT courses are relevant and cutting-edge in their field. Students from the degree programs have won or placed highly in national competitions and awards.

The Australian Federal Government has announced ECU will share $1.9 million funding as one of just two Academic Centres of Cyber Security Excellence in Australia, and the only one in Western Australia.

Since 2001 more than 1000 cyber security professionals have graduated from ECU's cyber security program - one of the longest running undergraduate cyber security degree programs in Australia.

It is estimated that there will be a global shortfall of 1.5 million cyber security professionals by 2020.

ECU's Work Integrated Learning program offers high achieving students the opportunity to participate in unpaid work placements with State and Local Government bodies, financial institutions and local industries.

The University's computer labs contain state-of-the-art equipment and include specialist labs for wireless networking, computer security and digital forensics.

Science (Engineering Studies)

This program is specially designed for students wishing to enrol in the wide range of programs offered by ECU's School of Engineering.

The School of Engineering at ECU is one of the fastest growing engineering schools in Australia with world-class multi-million dollar facilities featuring purpose-built labs and project spaces.

The programs are structured heavily around practical learning and students have the opportunity to work with real hardware, not just simulation packages. Teaching facilities include advanced laboratories with modern industry standard equipment.

ECU students have the opportunity to develop industry links during the 12-week Engineering Practicum unit. This unit provides full-time employment (normally unpaid) under the supervision of an engineer in an approved work situation.

Partnerships with industry ensures students graduate job ready and develop strong industry contacts along the way. ECU is the only university in Western Australia offering specialist areas such as Motorsports and a combined course in Chemical and Environmental Engineering.

“At ECC I was able to remain focused largely due to the small size of my classes. I found the lecturers to be very helpful and friendly. They were always happy to answer any questions regarding my units and assessments. Many lecturers also held ‘feedback sessions’ in the last week of semester. These were truly beneficial for my studies.”
